FEW CAN ESCAPE THE TIPPING EVIL

not inconsiderable bit of gold before the hoodoo was lifted.

People Must Tip.

Let not any man think that he can abstain from tipping and go scot free. If he is badly served he can complain to the proprietor of the hotel or restaurant; he will be heard but that will be an end of it. The proprietor will scold him and even if he should go as far as to administer a rebuke to a servant the rebuke would be accompanied by a prodigious wink. In one way or another, sooner or later, the man who does not tip or who does not tip sufficiently will be punished by the servants for whose service he has already paid amply, even excessively. The only recourse of a nontipper is never to stay two nights in the same hotel, never to eat two meals in the same restaurant, never to go twice to the same barber shop, never to ride twice on the same Pullman car, and, in short, never to double on his tracks. The nontipper is a marked man. There may be, and there are, numerous instances in which the man who tips in the hope of reward is not rewarded, but there is no instance in which a man who, out of an abundance of courage has refrained from tipping because of the fear of punishment, has escaped condemnation, conviction and condign punishment.

TRUTH OF STORY MAY DECIDE TRIAL

largely upon proving much of Mrs. Patterson's story to be untrue. Prominent lawyers declared today that it is their opinion that, if Mrs. Patterson can make a jury believe her testimony and the prosecution cannot shake it, she will be set free. The consensus of opinion in legal circles is that the entire case hinges on a question of veracity, unless the millionaire, Strauss, takes the stand.

For the amount of interest shown by the general public, the Patterson trial has never been equalled by a criminal court case in El Paso and seldom has it been surpassed elsewhere.

Are Your Employees Trustworthy?

The argument is frequently advanced by an over-confident business man that his employees, being faithful and trustworthy, need not be bonded.

He certainly feels that way about it; but he overlooks the fact that it is for that very reason bonds are needed.

TARIFF QUESTION IN ARIZONA FIGHT

by business conditions. And it has to be confessed that conditions in Arizona just now are not as good as could be desired. A good many men are out of work. Little new work is being developed, with the exception of extension of the El Paso & Southwestern, and the only moderate investment of capital here until Arizona has put herself on record in the coming election. Some of these reports have been started by alarmists for political effect, but it cannot be gainsaid that investors are waiting.

The tariff question will affect the congressional candidates principally, of course. Just indirectly it will affect all the others. The sheep and cattle men and the fruit growers are generally protectionists—good many of them are protection Democrats. It is this class to which the Republicans will have to look for the bulk of their support, to the business men generally. The average business man may be a rafter in theory but he is pretty sure to be a protectionist in fact. The tariff question is a man who will have to be reckoned with.

The Cameron Harbor Plan.

Conservative Democratic papers, published in Tucson, Bisbee and Douglas, are deriding the Ralph Cameron-Horai plan to buy a "shoe string" strip from Mexico in order to give Arizona a seaport on the Gulf of California. A good many of the Republican papers are rather lukewarm in their support of the proposition, though none are opposing it. Cameron insists that the seaport idea is not visionary. Also, he says he is advocating it in perfect good faith and that if elected to the senate he will try to put it through.

Smith says the same thing. Also he is still urging his presidential primary plan, but as both parties are pledged to the presidential primary he will not reap a vast amount of benefit from that plan.

The most interesting figure in the campaign, in a way, and the one who is largely responsible for the present scrambled condition of affairs, is Gen. W. P. Hunt, Democratic candidate for governor. The people of Arizona are just waking up to the fact that Mr. Hunt is some politician. In some cases the awakening has not been a pleasant one.

Hunt has been ridiculed and derided by the Republican press and politicians from one end of the territory to the other. His lack of education, his socialistic tendencies, his labor record and half a dozen other things about his habits and personality have been seized upon as good campaign material. And the funny thing about it all is that Hunt has turned every one of them to his own political advantage.

Long ago he was charged with illiteracy. It has been a matter of life long regret, said Mr. Hunt, "that I am deficient in education. But I have not had the advantages of the younger generation. I have been a busy man, making a living and developing Arizona to pay attention to books."

Then it was pointed out that he is an immensely rich man.

"I do not deny having accumulated some property," Hunt countered. "But I have accumulated it by hard work. I think it is a pretty good recommendation for a man that he has risen to independence by his own unaided efforts."

He's a Socialist, they said.

And to this Mr. Hunt replied: "I believe in the rights of the people. I believe they can be trusted in all government matters. I believe, the Arizona constitution is the best guarantee of human rights that has ever been written."

And now comes the climax. It has been argued all along that Hunt is an agitator and an unsafe person. That as governor his policy would be inimical to the business interests. But for all that, there is the best reason in the world for believing that he has made his peace with the biggest corporate interests in the state and will receive their cordial support.

Just how he has done it may never be known. But there is no doubt it has been done.

So it would seem that the man who can marshal the support of the socialistic element and the business element at one and the same time is, as has been remarked already, some politician.

Also, it would seem that the man who can take the keenest criticism and change it into votes is a man who will have to be reckoned with.

WHOLESALE OFFER OF MARRIAGE MADE

Two Hundred Fifty Arizona Bachelors Propose to 250 Widows

Santa Monica, Cal., Nov. 18.—Constituting what is said to be the largest matrimonial offer in history, the members of the Outman Bachelors' association of Outman, Ariz., have proposed to 250 widows of Santa Monica.

The offer is official, having come in the form of a letter to chief of police Barretto, signed by 18 directors of the bachelors' organization. After stating that a newspaper account of the political power held by the widows of Santa Monica since their recent enfranchisement had reached Outman, the letter continues:

"We have an equal number of bachelors here ranging in age from 25 to 41 years. We also have a bachelors' association. If you could find it convenient to communicate with some of these fair widows and notify them of our intentions, should they intend to get married."

PUSHING WORK ON TUCSON EXTENSION

Grading Gangs Scattered
Along the Entire Distance to Fairbanks

Benson, Ariz., Nov. 18.—Work on the El Paso & Southwestern railroad extension between Fairbanks and Tucson is now in progress the entire distance. Grading gangs are scattered along the whole 45 miles of work and concrete men are busy putting in the culverts. All the bridges and culverts are to be of concrete except three, which are to be of iron. One of these, across the Cienega creek, is to be over 100 feet in height and will be the tallest bridge on the El Paso & Southwestern system. The contractors expect to have the grading all completed within the next nine months, and track laying will be finished shortly after that time, according to present expectations.

At present it is not planned to build the iron bridges until the track laying is completed, so that the material can be hauled out on cars, but if it is decided to expedite matters, these bridges may also be built before the track is laid, as they are not far from the S. P. and the haul would not amount to a great deal.

To Divert All Traffic.

While the work of extension is in progress, graders are also busy rebuilding the present line between Lawrence Springs and Fairbanks, a distance of 11 miles. This is to give the company a better grade and enable it to handle heavy freight at a minimum of cost, as all Rock Island freight is to be delivered to the Southwestern and received from it by the Southern Pacific at Tucson when this piece of road is completed; also the Golden State limited will run through to Tucson and other Rock Island-Southwestern passenger trains will also be carried through to Tucson for interchange of traffic. This will result materially in reducing the number of trains between El Paso and Tucson on the S. P., but will add to the number of trains on the Southwestern between the two points, through Douglas.

S. P.'s Motor Car Line.

The experiment of the Southern Pacific railroad in operating a motor car on its Nogales-Benson line is proving a success and a big saving. The S. P. is now operating two of these cars in Arizona—one between here and Nogales and one between Globe and Miami. They are large, handsome, well built cars, with the motor room forward, a mail compartment next, then a baggage compartment and the passenger compartment last. The cars are torpedo shape and the windows are round, like portholes in the side of a ship. Passengers enter from the sides. The car operating between Globe and Miami makes three round trips a day. The one between here and Nogales only makes a round trip in two days—down one day and back the other—but on the alternate day a freight train carries a passenger coach, so that a daily passenger service is afforded. The through trains from the California coast are now operated out of Tucson, straight down to Nogales, over a line opened little less than a year ago, and no longer go through Benson, as of old.

MAY DIVERT THE TRAFFIC TO TUCSON

S. P. Coast Line to Get Through Passengers to Mexico City

Tucson, Ariz., Nov. 18.—When the S. P. coast line in Mexico is completed, the through Mexico City traffic of the S. P. will be routed that way, both from east and west, and the Mexican National south from El Paso will only get what business the road has to give up. The S. P. coast line will be through a wooded country all the way around to the Mexican capital, and this will be urged by the S. P. as against the desert line of the Mexican National south of El Paso in attempting to get the business, it is declared.

It is also argued that the Rock Island-Southwestern will also attempt to put its traffic into Mexico through Tucson instead of El Paso, in order to get the longer haul to Tucson, rather than drop the passengers at El Paso and send them south over the Mexican National.

Arizonaans believe that the completion of the El Paso & Southwestern to Tucson and the S. P. coast lines to Mexico City will divert a large amount of Mexican tourist traffic from El Paso through Tucson.
